

Taking Back Your Workplace

Saturday, June 18th

8:30 am to 4:00 pm

Milwaukee, WI

Open to all Local 9 members

Unions are finding it hard to get members involved—resulting in lead burnout and low member participation. What does it take to turn this around, to get members involved and take our workplaces back from management and critics of the union?

This workshop explores the concepts and methods of building meaningful member participation. Among the topics that will be tackled will be:

- Changing the “what’s the union done for me lately?” mindset
- Creating a union culture in the workplace
- Making strength permanent instead of mobilizing from scratch for each new fight
- Identifying and developing new activists
- Building internal structures that make us stronger

Instructor: Assistant Professor Don Taylor, School for Workers

The location is not determined as it will depend on the turnout for this class. Lunch will be provided and there will be reimbursement for mileage or train transportation.

Please respond no later than June Friday 10th
